Mr. Dream Job,

I have worked in bookstores and I would love to work at your company to help with the other side of publishing. I am very interested in your open position of acquisitions editor. For a long time I thought I wanted to be a writer, but after having some experience with reading other writer's work and helping them edit it, I realized that this is my true passion in life. I spent years in college specifically picking the right classes to help prepare me for this job.

I have read several of the books you have published and they've truly inspired me to be a better person. I want to help do that for other people. I may not be able to do that as a writer, but I would love to help another writer do that. There is never a time when I'm not reading a book. I also rate and review all the books that I read on goodreads.com.

I was involved in several clubs at both colleges that I attended, including two creative writing clubs. I was always eager to assist other writers with their work. I also cofounded a writer's network in New Jersey where I helped other writers edit their work.

I know that you are the perfect employer to me and I hope that you will give me a chance to prove that I am the perfect employee for your company.

Sincerely,

Sarah Myles
